

First Generation Professionals

Mission Statement and Goals

The First Generation Professionals (“FGP”) Group celebrates a sometimes overlooked aspect of diversity: social mobility and the unique journeys that Latham lawyers follow before entering the legal profession. We aspire to create a sense of community among attorneys who:

- 1. Are first in their families to graduate from college or university,
- 2. Are first in their families to graduate from professional school and/or enter a professional career, or
- 3. Come from a low-income or working class background.

The FGP advocates for and assists First Generation Professionals in their advancement at the firm through diverse recruiting efforts, mentoring and training programs, networking opportunities, and social events. We also provide members with opportunities to participate in community outreach and partner extensively with other Latham affinity groups to share advice and to co-host diversity-related client events.

About Us

- We take pride in our members’ unique backgrounds and cultivate an environment that provides support and space to share experiences and ask questions.
- We operate global and local mentoring programs and provide opportunities for members to participate in external social mobility programs (e.g., with law schools, local schools, etc.)
- We provide training and networking opportunities for our members and host speakers and social events for members and their clients.

“As the first in my family to graduate from university and pursue a professional career, I was fortunate to find that my path to law was fairly straightforward and that any challenges were, with the support of others, entirely surmountable. My experiences have, however, made me aware of the (often invisible) barriers to social mobility that other first generation professionals still face, which is why I am incredibly proud to be part of Latham’s efforts to foster and celebrate social mobility within the firm and more widely within the profession.”

– Laura Holden, First Gen Global Leader, London associate

“Being brought up in a working class family, I worried that I would find life at a global law firm tough and difficult to navigate. Happily, my experience has been a positive one, but I am acutely aware of the difficulties and barriers many face.

We want current and future colleagues to learn from our experiences and to have a forum to discuss and resolve any issues they face.”

– Lene Malthasen, FGP Partner Advisor, London partner

The First Generation Professionals Group is one of seven global affinity groups at the firm. Our global affinity groups provide a firmwide platform to share experiences, advice, and interests, and to partner with clients and other groups interested in fostering a more diverse and inclusive profession.

