

CHESTON LARSON

Managing Partner Latham & Watkins LLP

Cheston Larson is the managing partner of the San Diego office of Latham & Watkins LLP and leads its Emerging Companies Practice. In his office leadership role, Larson coordinates and collaborates with 110 lawyers and 56 staff as they advise innovative clients from startups to Fortune 500 companies, many based in San Diego. His practice covers a broad range of general corporate matters, including counseling public and privately held companies, as well as representing venture capital and investment banking firms, in private and public financing transactions. Larson is highly regarded as a leading lawyer in the life sciences sector, deftly advising biotech and other life sciences companies through all stages of their life cycle — including startup formation work, seed capital, angel financing, venture financing, IPO and M&A transactions. He also advises clients in the software, telecommunications, cleantech and other technology industries.
