► Shout out to Latham & Watkins partner Melissa Arbus Sherry and associates Caroline Flynn and Amy Feinberg. The U.S. Supreme Court last week handed a unanimous victory to their pro bono client, a Fargo, North Dakota, solo practitioner who had narrowly missed a 30-day time limit for filing a petition in the U.S. Tax Court to challenge an IRS decision to seize property to collect tax debts. The court last week, in a ruling hailed as a win for low-income tax filers and small businesses, held that the deadline is not a jurisdictional limit and it can be equitably tolled. Sherry argued the case before the Supreme Court and Feinberg brought the matter into the firm and argued the appeal before the Eight Circuit.
